Sponsor(s):
Caitlin Quinn (UCB AS)

WHEREAS, The University of California Student Association (UCSA) is the “official representation of the student body of the University of California and the various campus student governments to the University of California Office of the President, the University of California Board of Regents, and other University related entities”<sup>1</sup>;

WHEREAS, The UCSA “seeks to advance higher education by empowering current and future students to advocate on their own behalf for the accessibility, affordability, and quality of the University of California system” and has a history of advocating for issues critical to students to influence University of California administrators, Regents, and elected officials<sup>2</sup>;

WHEREAS, The student body of the University of California has a long and proud history of activism for social justice in which divestment campaigns have been and continue to be used to reclaim political agency and to change UC policies that maintain investments in companies that demonstrate a lack of accountability, ethicality, and respect for the rights and dignity of others, most notably in the context of South Africa and most recently in the context of fossil fuels<sup>3</sup> and the Prison Industrial Complex<sup>4</sup>;

WHEREAS, In a 2012 resolution, the UCSA recognized “the legitimacy of boycotts and divestment as important social movement tools, and encourages all institutions of higher learning to cleanse their investment portfolios of unethical investments in companies implicated in or profiting from violations of international human rights law, without making special exemptions for any country”;<sup>5</sup>

WHEREAS, Despite adopting the United Nations’ Principles for Responsible Investment in September 2014<sup>6</sup>, which include guidelines stating that “businesses should support and respect the protection of internationally proclaimed human rights; and make sure that they are not complicit in human rights abuses,”<sup>7</sup> the University of California remains invested in companies that do not meet these standards;

WHEREAS, Six of nine undergraduate student associations of the University of California have passed resolutions calling for divestment from corporations that enable and profit from violations of Palestinian human rights<sup>8</sup>;

WHEREAS, The UC Graduate Student Worker Union, UAW 2865, representing over 13,000 teaching assistants, tutors, and other student workers at the University of California, voted by a 65% margin to support the call for the UC Regents to divest from corporations implicated in the violation of Palestinian human rights;
